Seegrotte Hinterbrühl:

Seegrotte Hinterbrühl consists of 2 levels. To get to the upper level, you can take stairs through a headrace tunnel. Here, you will not only see how gypsum was mined and view the break chamber, St. Barbara's Chapel, and the stables, but there is also an airplane model, museum, incline ramp, and tower, as well as a festival room and the small blue lake. The lower level lies approx. 60 metres below the earth's surface and with approx. 6,200m² of water area, forms Europe's largest underwater lake. A huge volume of water enters the lake by way of altogether 7 tributaries every day. For this reason, 50-60,000 litres of water are pumped out every night to keep the water level at a constant 1.20 metres. You can experience a guided tour over the crystal-clear water in a boat.
